About the Cover Artist Melanie Parke

Melanie attended the School of the Art Institute of Chicago and has since been a resident in such places as Isle Royale and Yosemite National Park. She has had work featured in group and solo exhibitions throughout the United States.

Melanie remains active in multiple independent projects such as After Rain Daddy Book Collaboration with Paul Breschuk and in 2012, the Curation of Jonathan Hartshorn's Care Package Project in Chicago, Indiana and Michigan.

In her own words, Melanie describes her paintings as "provoked by romantic notions of idyllic natural environments that sometimes scuffle with urban anxieties. Then the paintings are taken to abstraction, memory, and non objective imagery."

ATTRACTIONS

Inside & Out

Harbor Country has miles and miles of beaches to walk or just kick back in the sun to read a book, throw a Frisbee, have a picnic lunch, swim or do nothing at all. There are piers, marinas and boat slips on Lake Michigan and rivers on which you can kayak or canoe. You can explore the dunes that are here from prehistoric times, hike the many trails resplendent with nature, or enjoy the endless bike trails covered with leafy canopies that take your breath away. Don't forget our quaint back roads just waiting for you to discover and shop for their farm-to-table bounty. When was the last time you had homemade jam, freshly made honey and syrup, warm-from-the-oven pies, and brown eggs gathered that morning? There are small towns that you can easily walk from one end to the other investigating everything along the way. Harbor Country celebrates every occasion with a parade, especially the Flag Day Parade in Three Oaks billed as the country's largest and a must see. We're here in Harbor Country for all four seasons to bask in the sunshine, leaf-peep, bike along, ski across and ride around in. Just don't forget your camera.

Rip Currents

Rip currents are powerful, channeled currents of water flowing away from shore. They typically extend from the shoreline, through the surf zone, and past the line of breaking waves. Rip currents can occur at any beach with breaking waves, including the Great Lakes. As waves travel from deep to shallow water, they will break near the shoreline. When waves break strongly in some locations and weakly in others, this can cause circulation cells which are seen as rip currents: narrow, fast-moving belts of water traveling offshore. Safety tips for Rip Currents are provided at all Harbor Country beaches. It cannot be stressed enough that even experienced swimmers can be caught in rip currents.

Safety

Chikaming and New Buffalo Townships have initiated a safety location system for the Lake Michigan shoreline. There are blue fiberglass markers installed approximately every one tenth of a mile along the shoreline. Blue beach markers start at the 7.8 mile mark and extend to the 14.7 mile mark. These markers are coordinated to the Berrien County 911 system for faster emergency response in the event of a mishap. You can also access the local emergency center on your cell phone by dialing 269-756-1111.

Michigan City Chamber Music Festival, The MCCMF operates under several guiding principles. The first priority is always artistic quality. The MCCMF attains this through the presence of world-class musicians. Each of them has formidable performance skills and impressive credentials. Another is to forge and strengthen the three-fold artistic relationship between great chamber music, the audience, and the performer. This is accomplished through interactive presentations by the Festival Musicians. The MCCMF performers believe that oral presentation regarding the history, complexities and any other interesting aspects of the piece to be performed is vital for the audience's enjoyment. The Story of Harbor Country

by the late Ron Miller

New Buffalo

Wessel Whittaker was having a miserable day. Bound for Chicago out of Buffalo, NY, Wessel and his crew, aboard the schooner Post Boy, thought the end might be near. A savage November storm in 1834 grabbed control of their vessel and hurtled it onto the Lake Michigan shore. Aground and breaking up, the Post Boy was lost. But Wessel and his crew managed to struggle ashore near the current village of Grand Beach. The New Yorkers, en route to St. Joseph to report the loss of their ship, came upon a harbor which Whittaker was certain could rival the port of Chicago. Captain Whittaker determined that he would return to the scene of his calamity and found his "New" Buffalo.

Our courageous Captain, of course, wasn't the first visitor to New Buffalo. The Miami, Iroquois and Potawatomi Indians all fought for control of the area. The Indians, and the game and fish they cherished, also attracted French traders and missionaries. But it was our Captain who first made New Buffalo into a permanent community. Whittaker, along with friends and relatives, returned in 1835 and began to develop and promote their dream. Saw mills were constructed and log buildings for every purpose were built. More settlers arrived from New York and the South with not dreams, but expectations, of riches to be harvested here. Soon these pioneers learned the value of tourists.

Land travelers between Detroit and Chicago meandered through New Buffalo and spent their tourist dollars here. But in the late 1840s, the Michigan Central Railroad Company completed the stretch of track between Niles and New Buffalo, making New Buffalo the end of the railroad line for travelers between Detroit and Chicago. An unprecedented scale of tourism quickly reshaped the town's character. Hotels, restaurants and numerous saloons selling whiskey at five cents a pint were established.

Although the railroad continued to contribute to the local economy, it was not until the 1900s and the age of the automobile that New Buffalo truly established its link to tourism. In 1934 the State recognized New Buffalo as "The Gateway to Michigan" and built a tourist information center here. The current Welcome Center on I-94 is the busiest in Michigan.

The dredging of New Buffalo's harbor began in the 1960s. By 1975, New Buffalo's safe harbor became a reality and the new Whittaker Street bridge was dedicated. Not quite a port to equal Chicago's, but Wessel's harbor was finally complete.

Michiana-Grand Beach

Unlike nearby Harbor Country communities, Michiana and Grand Beach were solely founded as resort communities. The Long Beach Development Company began subdividing and building Michiana in the 1920s. A famous Michiana landmark was a Signal Oak at the corner of Michiana and Powhattan Drives. Early surveyors marked the tree's trunk to signal the Indiana-Michigan state line. The area that is now Michiana (Michigan side) and Michiana Shores (Indiana side) was originally called Michigan Shores.

Stately white gates have welcomed visitors to Grand Beach since the early 1900s. The community's golf course dates to 1911 and was a huge attraction for Chicagoans who arrived three times a day on the Michigan Central Railroad. Frank Lloyd Wright built homes in Grand Beach, but the village's most famous architectural offering was the 175-room Golfmore Hotel. Opened in 1921, the Golfmore offered concerts, movies and a huge, at least for the Midwest, ski jump located on a dune behind the hotel. But the Golfmore was destroyed in 1939 by a spectacular fire.

The Grand Beach Inn was once The Pinewood Lodge and served as the training camp for James Braddock as he prepared for his prize fight with Joe Louis. Perhaps the most famous visitors to Grand Beach, however, are author Father Andrew Greeley and the Mayors Daley of Chicago, who have maintained a summer home in the village for decades.

Union Pier

Union Pier was founded on an ethic of hard work without visions of a port to rival Chicago as was Wessel Whittaker's notion in New Buffalo. There was nature's bounty to be harvested here. Tree trunks measured five feet and more in diameter. Trees rose 60 feet to the lowest branches. Squirrels, we are assured, ran through the community without ever touching the ground. There clearly was no Sears Tower to be seen on the horizon across the Lake, but everyone in what is now Union Pier understood that timber was the fuel which would fire the growth of Chicago. Boards could be bucks. And so, a group of men built a "Pier in Union" at the foot of Berrien St. It was constructed as a 600-foot edifice jutting into Lake Michigan. A 130 ton schooner was built on the adjacent beach. Tracks were laid to Three Oaks and mule-driven cars brought in lumber from saw mills along the route. Soon there were brick and tool handle factories sending their wares to Chicago and beyond. The Chicago Fire of 1871 only increased the demand for Union Pier's natural bounty. But, Chicago was rebuilt, Union Pier's pier washed away and a new economy had to be established.

In the 1900s, tourism replaced timber, bricks and fishing as Union Pier's major industry. Union Pier became the United Nations of tourism. Eastern Europeans, African Americans and Jewish vacationers all established homes and resorts in the community. Olympian Jesse Owens had a home here. Chicago Mayor Anton Cermak, ultimately the victim of an assassin's bullet, brought guests to his summer home by yacht. John Dillinger even stopped for gas at the Prusa Resort service station which is now the Wine Sellers on Red Arrow Highway. But, still, it's the lake and its sunsets that attract us all.

Three Oaks

Imagine this: the President of the United States makes his way to a tiny Michigan village to dedicate a war memorial. He's greeted by a fellow who has turned turkey feathers into a worldwide industry and declared "Three Oaks Against the World." Edward Warren shook the hand of President McKinley in 1899 at the Three Oaks train station and heard President McKinley eloquently dedicate the Dewey Cannon Monument to the good people of Three Oaks and their contribution to the Spanish-American War. The campaign Warren waged against every other city and village in the nation to raise the most per capita contribution for the war effort and its veterans was yet another victory for a most incredible businessman and benefactor.

Three Oaks was linked to the rest of our current Harbor Country communities by the timber and bricks which were shipped to Chicago and other Great Lakes cities. And, of course, there was the railroad. The crews aboard the Central Michigan Railroad passing through the village recognized there were three oak trees which appeared to be one because of their mass and proximity. Everyone on board recognized the three oaks, as did the local residents. Want to name a town?

But, back to this Warren fellow. One day he noticed a store clerk fix a broken whale bone corset stay with a turkey feather quill. An industry was born at that moment. Turkey feather quills were becoming garment stays and buggy whips, as well. The Three Oaks economy was booming. The Warren Featherbone factory still stands in Three Oaks.

The biggest events in Harbor Country occur in Three Oaks every year. The "Oakers" claim they have the biggest Flag Day Parade in the States. Certainly no one will dispute that it's one great party. But, the biggest event is the Apple Cider Century bike ride which draws some 7,000 riders from across the country. No buggy whips required.

Lakeside

Soon after Wessel Whittaker founded New Buffalo, newly arriving pioneers must have thought the village was a bit congested. Perhaps they simply wanted less expensive land. Whatever the reason, the area's expansion moved north across the Galien River to what is now Lakeside. An original settler named the new community "Chikaming," an Indian word meaning "at the shore of the sea."

As with the other towns developing at the time, one of the first orders of business was to establish a saw mill. But it wasn't until the 1850s and the arrival of the Wilkinson family when real progress began. The Wilkinsons bought 2,500 acres of land along the lake shore. They focused their energies on the area that is now the intersection of Lakeshore Road and Pier Street. A trading post, boarding house and assorted other enterprises were established. But the jewel of the village, naturally called Wilkinson, was a 600- foot-long pier. The Wilkinson family's schooner, Enterprise, took lumber and bricks to Chicago and returned with supplies for the now thriving trading post. Wilkinson was renamed Lakeside in 1874.

In the late 1800s, with a train now stopping in the community, Lakeside's tourist industry began to flourish. The early visitors were often administrators and faculty members from the University of Chicago. In the 1920s, the Chikaming Country Club was established. A replica of Shakespeare's birthplace was dismantled in Chicago and transported to Lakeside where it became the Country Club's Shakespeare House.

As Lakeside was developing, and the current Red Arrow Highway was constructed, the original Wilkinson Trading Post was moved from its lake location to its current home on Red Arrow where it was eventually restored as Wilkinson Village and now houses an interesting museum which traces the history of Lakeside.

The Lakeside Inn is probably the village's most historically romantic site. Movie stars were wined and dined there. And during Prohibition, the tale goes, Al Capone along with a variety of Chicago politicians used the Inn as a favorite drinking and gambling spot.

Harbert-Sawyer

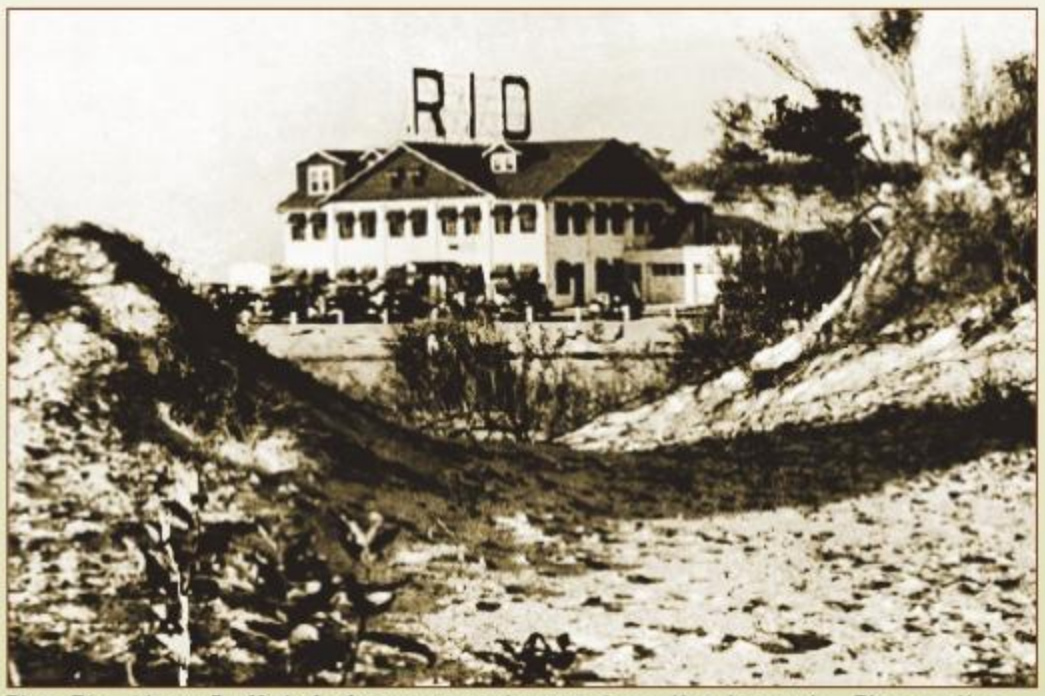
The emergence of the railroad secured the founding of Harbert. John Glavin, an engineer on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad, noted the area's barren land on one of his runs between Chicago and Detroit. Glavin investigated and found the land affordable. Glavin had a new career. But while Glavin founded the community in the 1850s, a Chicago industrialist who was instrumental in building the town's train depot, aced out Glavin when it came to naming the village.

Agriculture was the mainstay of the Harbert economy. Orchards and vineyards were established. All of the town's products would be gathered at the Harbert depot for transport to Chicago and Detroit.

The community's most famous visitor and resident was Carl Sandburg. Much of Sandburg's Pulitzer Prize winning account of Abraham Lincoln was written at his Harbert home. The Sandburgs lived in Harbert for 15 years. An Ohio judge, Silas Sawyer, grew weary of the court room and decided he would join the westward migration in the mid-1800s. Sawyer bought 100 acres and after clearing half of his land planted it with fruit trees. He continued logging the area and hauled his timber on a horse-driven railroad to Fuller Pier where Warren Dunes State Park is now. The town grew as an agricultural center and eventually established an open air market where buyers transported their products by train and truck to population centers.

In the 1920s, John Flynn arrived and started his Palm Tea Room as well as the Flynn Soda Grill. The Flynn Building became Sawyer's most famous and for many years also housed the Flynn Theater which staged live productions.

Sawyer is home to the well known Tower Hill Camp which was founded in the 1920s by the Congregational Church.



The Rio, New Buffalo's famous restaurant on the beach. The entire building was destroyed by fire in 1959.

The Lighthouse, a New Buffalo hot-spot that roared through the 1920s, often drew large crowds to see famous bands of the era including Guy Lomardo and his orchestra, Wayne King and many others.

MEETINGS & SEMINARS

Once you get home and the bags are unpacked, you'll have to face the fact that sooner or later you're going back to work. You remember work- that center for stressful meetings that are always being interrupted by telephone calls that can't wait or people who have to see you now. Is it any wonder you ever get through a work week at all?

Harbor Country can offer an interesting alternative to "meeting madness." Remember when you were here sitting on the beach or under a huge maple tree, taking a call here and there, but always coming back to your senses? That's what Harbor Country is each and every day of the year. Now imagine this setting for your next meeting, planning session or sales initiative. Picture perfect, isn't it?

As a meeting and seminar alternative, you'll find that Harbor Country can offer you state-of-the-art services such as high-speed wireless Internet connections, Power Point presentation equipment, quiet meeting rooms and relaxing down time at area restaurants, spas and gym facilities.

What you won't find is somebody poking their head in the door every few minutes calling your key people out of the room. You'll get down to the art of doing business while surrounding yourself in the art of doing Harbor Country.

From a few people gathered in a cottage for an intensive think tank to a regional meeting of key salespeople, engineers or strategists, Harbor Country has the accommodations and facilities to handle them. We have to be honest. We leave the convention hosting to the bigger cities nearby. That's another plus- those bigger cities nearby- they allow easy connections to Harbor Country via interstate, train or commuter flights. We are just over an hour drive from downtown Chicago, a half hour from South Bend and Benton Harbor, and closer than most trips to the airport for many businesses.

For more information about setting up a meeting or seminar package call toll free at 269-469-5409 and put an end to the madness today.

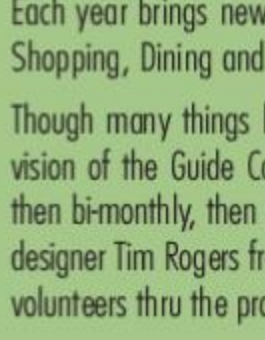
History of the Harbor Country Guide

By Liz Thomas & Chuck Garasic



2012

The Harbor Country Guide had very humble beginnings. It was 1986, the Chamber of Commerce had just been formed and Nadra Kissman was elected the first president. Her Board of Directors wanted a source of revenue and a publication to extol the virtues of the eight small communities united under the name "Harbor Country".

Trisha Miller and her Public Relations and Marketing Committee members, Rita & Jennifer Cochran and Ken Gosh debuted the very first guide of twelve pages on newsprint in a tabloid format. There were 68 members to showcase.

In 1989 membership had grown to 180 as Larry Bubb took over as HCCC's president. The Guide morphed into a magazine format with 56 pages and sported it's first full color cover. New feature articles written by Nadra Kissman, Ron Miller, Bonnie Sima, Kathy Zeiger, Evelyn & Harry Olson, JV Peacock and Tom Gosh were included.

For the past 20 years as the Chamber's membership has grown to over 500, so has the Guide, topping out at 106 pages. The committee itself has grown from the original 4 to as large as 18 members. New articles and sections have been added highlighting the areas economic opportunities, Festivals & Events, Lodging, Dining, Biking, Fishing and Wineries. In 1995 the Guide went full color throughout, and in 1996 the format was changed and printed in a smaller more economic size and lavished with color photographs and paintings on every page.

The Guides cover art is a story of its own. Every year committee members roam galleries on the lookout for cover art. Dozens of paintings are "borrowed" from the artists and brought to the committee who votes to elect the winner. These spirited discussions can go on for hours. In 1999 posters of the Guide cover art were printed starting with the 1995 cover by Neil Keintz, the 1996 by Steven Moss, 1997 by Roger Harvey, 1998 by Cynthia Fredrick and 1999 by Charles Vickery.

Each year brings new improvements. Locator maps with more details, reference guides for Meetings and Seminars, Lodging, Shopping, Dining and Wineries. Harvest and Temperature Schedules were added last year.

Though many things have changed in Harbor Country and in the Guide, one thing has remained the same. The dedication and vision of the Guide Committee members. These are volunteers who start meeting in October. They continue meeting, monthly, then bi-monthly, then weekly, writing, editing, proofing until the Guide goes to print. Leading this band of spirited entrepreneurs is designer Tim Rogers from Fusion Design. Since 1998 Tim has used his considerable talent and diplomatic skills to guide these eager volunteers thru the process of publishing the most comprehensive, informative and attractive Guide book around.

Harbor Country

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

New Buffalo This vibrant town is a center of activity with its public beach, lake and riverside parks, boat launch and marinas. The streets are lined with specialty stores and unique eateries. Its lakefront park is a perfect place to watch the sailboats or a sunset. New Buffalo is home to the Harbor Country Chamber of Commerce, New Buffalo Railroad Museum, an Amtrak stop and a Michigan Welcome Center, the busiest in the state.

Michiana Known for its quaint log cabins, many of them dating back to the 1920s, this charming community is home to about 200 homeowners. Michiana was one of the last resort areas in the region to be developed because of its dense woods and undisturbed natural wetlands. The village is located on the shores of Lake Michigan and on the Indiana/Michigan state border, hence the name Michiana was given in 1945.

Grand Beach Originally a community of Sears and Roebuck cottages, this exclusive resort village on Lake Michigan is home to less than 150 residents. Stately white gates have welcomed visitors to Grand Beach since the early 1900's and the community's public golf course dates to 1911. Among the most famous visitors to Grand Beach are author Father Andrew Greeley and the Mayors Daley of Chicago who have maintained vacation homes in the village for decades.

Union Pier Named from one of the shipping piers used to transport timber to Chicago, the area's major industry in the 1870s, this popular resort town has boomed in the recent years. The countryside surrounding this quaint but growing lakeshore community is dotted with unique antique shops, galleries and grand old resorts that have been restored to their former glory.

Lakeside Settled in 1854 with the Wilkinson sawmill, trading post, and pier, the town became one of the area's earliest summer retreats. Red Arrow Highway and its crossroads are home to many antique shops, galleries and specialty stores. An active homeowners' association sponsors several events during the year and fosters a strong sense of community.

Harbert Home to a Swedish bakery that speaks to the Scandinavian founders of this thriving little resort community that was created after the turn of the century. The community's most famous visitor and resident was Carl Sandburg. Much of Sandburg's Pulitzer Prize winning account of Abraham Lincoln was written at his Harbert home, where he and his wife lived for 15 years. Today, you'll encounter out of the ordinary art galleries, antique shops, stores, and charming dining opportunities.

Sawyer The site of Warren Dunes, which is one of the state's largest parks and the most popular with several hundred acres of dunelands, campgrounds and beaches. Sawyer also provides a large travel center just off Interstate 94 which offers weary travelers a safe haven, fuel, food and travel aids. The surrounding area is graced with country vineyards, many antique stores, curio shops and fruit stands.

Three Oaks Named for massive oaks that stood near a town rail crossing, the town has become quite a cultural center with its fine arts movie theatre, a live performance theatre that draws much of its talent from Chicago and several artists' studios and galleries. In addition, the downtown area, with its "turn of the century" buildings, features niche retail, specialty and dining options as well as several parks and museums.
